

Position Name: Project Construction Manager / 项目施工经理

Address: Beijing, China

Vacancy Number: 3

Responsibilities:

Executes field construction activities in conformance with project drawings, specifications, schedules, cost estimates, procedures, quality requirements and safety standards; Construction resources management including manpower, materials, tools, and equipment; Guide development of project schedules in cooperation with the construction engineers and planners; Ensures that daily and weekly short-range planning is maintained down to the foreman level; Determines manpower levels to attain schedule milestones and monitors manpower levels and craft mixes to ensure conformance with the construction plan; Assists the Project Manager in the overall administration of labor relations policies; Manages the contractual commitments of constructors, including cost, quality, and schedule and coordinates their field activities.

Requirements:

- Bachelor degree in Mechanical/Electrical/Civil/Chemical or other engineering disciplines.
- Minimum 8 years of working experience in the related industry, of which, at least 6 years of experience in project construction and management.
- Good experience in project construction control or EPC environment.
- Excellence on communication and coordination with client/owner, even with engineering designers.
- Strong organizational, analytical and problem solving skill, as well as project construction management skill.
- Fluent speaking and writing in English.